

Taking Global Climate Action beyond 2020

d·i·e

Deutsches Institut für
Entwicklungspolitik

German Development
Institute

Accelerating the Sustainable Future We Want

When: 17 June 2019, 16:45-18:15

Where: Side event room „BONN“, World Conference Center Bonn (WCCB)

The role of non-state and subnational, or ‘non-Party’ actors, is gaining increasing attention in climate governance. Efforts by such actors present an enormous potential to spawn a multiplicity of solutions and to accelerate low-carbon and climate resilient transitions. Marrakech Partnership for Global Climate Action is playing a key role in mobilizing and demonstrating non-state and subnational solutions. After 2020, such non-state and subnational action will remain crucial.

Building on outcomes of an expert workshop, this side event highlights opportunities and presents recommendations to:

- continue and improve the efforts under ‘Marrakech Partnership’ / Global Climate Action after 2020;
- broaden participation and strengthen Global Climate Action in the Global South;
- strengthen linkages to non-state and subnational climate action at the national level in the implementation of NDCs;
- maximize synergies between national, regional, and international mobilization efforts.

Panelists:

Niclas Svenningsen, UNFCCC

Marika van Staden, ICLEI

Ramiro Fernandez, Fundación Avina

Augustine Njamshi, PanAfrican Climate Justice Alliance (PACJA)

Therese Niner Guiao, Parabukas

Hajar Benmoussa, Mohammed VI Foundation for Environmental Protection

Moderators:

Sander Chan, German Development Institute / Deutsches Institut für Entwicklungspolitik (DIE)

Idil Boran, York University

www.klimalog.info

www.yorku.ca

#klimalog